Relationships Under Construction (RUC) is a campaign to reach young people with the truth about early sexual activity and other risky behaviors. The purpose of RUC is to come along side parents and teachers and provide a platform for discussion and education of both students and their parents/guardians and classroom teachers. The goal of RUC is to encourage successful life sequencing for students to mature into responsible adults, citizens and parents of the future by avoiding risky behaviors and achieving optimal health, thus, strengthening future families worldwide.

This project is the dedicated work of many professional instructors, seminar speakers, colleagues and students. Without them this project would not be possible.

This work is dedicated to my wonderful husband of 48 years, Dennis Wood, and our four awesome grown children, their amazing marriage partners, and our ten incredible grandchildren – Alexis, Caedmon, Santiago, Helen, Olivia, Audrey, Carl, Duncan, Rylen and Rosalyn and all future generations to come.

- Special thanks to David Mahan, Frontline Youth Communications, for creating and providing what the school administration say are the best middle school and high school assemblies they ever had; for working with Relationships Under Construction and providing “Impact Seminars” for presenters so that we can be better teachers. You have incredible gifts!
- Special thanks to John Pagliaro, Brewhouse Media, Ltd. His technical digital agility is stupendous! Thanks for original design of the curriculum and making it so user-friendly. Thank you for the countless hours of working with us late into the night to make sure the curriculum was the best it could be. Especially thanks for your patience with us!
- Special thanks to Joe Windham, designer of RUC curriculum 2020! You have incredible talent and ability. We cannot wait to see what the future brings. Your design of CSR SH 5th grade © 2020 and RUC 8th grade © 2020, and RUC High School © 2020 are awesome.
- Special thanks to Jim Coughlin, author of Facing Reality. After eight years of bringing you to Ohio to present over 25 seminars, I finally got it.
- Extra special thanks to April Thoms who believed in me, gave me the vision for what could be and gave me permission to use her ideas. The curriculum, RSVP, Responsible Social (Sexual) Values Program that she created the late 1980’s has many parts copied (mostly without permission) in many sexual risk avoidance curriculums across the country. What a compliment to her creative genius. Just working with her, sharing ideas and coming up with new demos, helped me be a more creative teacher.
- Thank you to Cheryl Biddle for sustaining RSVP.
- And finally, special thanks to our donors and legislators who worked tirelessly to make funds available for the grassroots efforts all over this country. Many presenters are so passionate that they do their job with or without funds, but it is so important to have the funds to be able to provide more for students.

My sincerest appreciation to everyone who has dedicated their lives to make a difference in present and future generations. You make an incredible difference in the world.

Sincerely,

Catherine Wood

In April 2012, Janet Parshall, Nationally Syndicated talk show host reviewed the Relationships Under Construction curricula and had this to say about RUC, "Sex education without moral guidelines is like teaching a student to drive without knowing the rules of the road. Sooner or later, the 'driver' will have an accident. Relationships Under Construction offers to students not only one of the best and most factual sex education curriculums in the country, but it also serves to prevent students from 'driving off the road' by providing the tools they need for good judgment. RUC has a proven track record of teaching young people how to make right decisions that impact not only their present but their future as well. The global acceptance and endorsement of this program underscores its universal effectiveness. I am thrilled to add my name to the growing list of those who unhesitatingly stand with RUC!" Janet's program is "In the Market with Janet Parshall" heard on various Moody stations nationwide.
